More single and unaccompanied Soldiers, staff sergeant to captain, assigned to Fort Stewart are taking advantage of the new housing available to them. Marne Point, the new unaccompanied personnel housing complex operated by Balfour Beatty Communities, just signed its 100th resident. Staff Sergeant Mickey Campbell, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2-3 Brigade Training Battalion, 2nd Brigade Combat Team, received the keys to his single bedroom apartment, March 30. "I found out about (Marne Point) when I brought one of my Soldiers by to get a new room key," said Campbell, who has been sharing an apartment with a friend. "I picked up one of the brochures, looked at it and decided to give them a call."

Installation honors Red Cross volunteers

Fort Stewart officials honored volunteers who have given back during the 2009 American Red Cross Volunteer Awards and Recognition Ceremony, March 26. "You are absolutely invaluable to our readiness," said Maj. Gen. Tony Cucolo, 3rd Infantry Division commander. "We need you and our Families need you."

The Red Cross is a charitable organization — not a government agency — and depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its humanitarian mission.

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and counsels victims of disasters, provides nearly half of the nation's blood supply, teaches lifesaving skills, and supports military members and their Families.

The 115 Red Cross volunteers who were honored at the ceremony served a combined total of nearly 11,000 hours in 2008.

During 2008, Stewart's Red Cross briefed 10,018 service-members and their Families, and serviced 2,433 casework and emergency communication messages.

"It is important to recognize the volunteers because the volunteers are the backbone of the Red Cross," said Alphonsa Oliver, Fort Stewart's American Red Cross senior station manager. "If not for the volunteers, the Red Cross could not do all the things that we do, not only at Fort Stewart but around the world."

The American Red Cross

is a humanitarian organization that helps people prepare for and cope with emergencies through the efforts of the volunteers and donations from the American people, said Oliver.

"Volunteers are vital to our society, and they represent everything that is good about us," said Shirley Hines-Atkins, former regional manager and regional chairman for American Red Cross and guest speaker for the event. "Our society is finally beginning to recognize the value of volunteers."

"Volunteers, you are a member of the most respected work force in America," said Hines-Atkins. "Your volunteer time is recognized as job experience and time in service."

The goal of the American Red Cross is to motivate, retain and to continue to recruit volunteers, said Oliver, who has been with the Red Cross for 30 years and has been here since January.

One of the volunteers recognized during the ceremony was Brigitte Shanken, who has volunteered her time for the past 31 years.

"I truly enjoy volunteering and making a difference," said Shanken. "It is extremely important to volunteer in the community, because you are part of the community that you live in and you can make a difference. It's a wonderful experience."

Blackhawks bring their loved ones to Family Day

Staff Sgt. Natalie Rostek
3th HBCT Public Affairs

FORT BENNING, Ga. - Soldiers and leaders of the 3rd Squadron, 1st Cavalry Regiment, 3rd Heavy Brigade Combat Team, 3rd Infantry Division, hosted a unit Family Day March 21 at the Caramouche Range at Fort Benning.

Approximately 110 parents, spouses, and children visited the range to witness exactly what their 3/1 Cav. Soldiers do to train for upcoming deployments.

"During the (Family Readiness Group) meetings it has been a reoccurring question," said Maj. David Guthrie, executive officer of 3/1 Cav. "The spouses were saying they don't really understand what we do out in the field."

Visitors began the day enjoying a demonstration of a Bradley Fighting Vehicle exercise conducted by Soldiers of Troop B, 3/1 Cav. Lt. Col. Christopher Kennedy, squadron commander, provided the audience with a play-by-play commentary as they watched the action on the field and a huge television.

After the demonstration, attendees were given the opportunity to observe, touch and even crawl inside many pieces of equipment used by the battalion Soldiers. Static displays allowed the family members an up-close and personal look at military equipment such as Stryker medical evacuation vehicles, Bradley Fighting vehicles, M240 machine guns, M4 rifles, M9 hand guns, and 25mm ammunition.

"My kids were having a blast sitting up in the turret," said 1st Lt. Nathan Twigg, executive officer of Troop A, 3/1 Cav. "They loved the Strykers."

Family Day activities provided 3/1 Cav. Soldiers with a well-deserved, mid-training break from their three-week long training exercise. Soldiers had not been able to spend quality time with their families for a week-and-a-half, according to Guthrie.

With the intent of informing family members of the vigorous training their Soldiers go though in preparation for future operations, Guthrie deemed the event a success.

God provides hope in times of fear

Chap. (1st Lt.) Rob Olson
3rd BSB, 1st HBCT, 3rd ID Chaplain

Psalm 34:4 says, “I sought the Lord, and He answered me and delivered me from all my fears” (HCSB).*

Fear can take many forms in our lives. There are some people who are afraid of anything “new” that comes their way.

Although I have never attended Airborne School, I am sure that the anticipation of the first jump is at least a little fearful. Another person could be afraid of something because of a bad experience in the past. It could also be that an individual is so fearful of failure that something is never attempted.

Whoever you are, it is likely that you have struggled with some type of fear in your life. If you are currently struggling with some type of fear, this Psalm should be very encouraging to you.

It is encouraging because it is a personal testimony of how God showed up in an individual's life. Who was this individual? None other than King David, who Luke describes in Acts 3:22 as a, “...man after (God's) own heart...”

(NIV).

I don't know how you have handled fear in your life, but I want to encourage you to seek the Lord in your fear. Yes, we need friends and family members to talk to when we are overwhelmed and afraid, but there are times when we are alone.

In all circumstances, we must remember that just as the Lord was with Moses and Joshua in all of the challenges they faced (Deuteronomy 31:6-8), so He is with you and I as we seek to follow and trust in Him no matter what comes our way.

The installation's annual Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by the Directorate of Morale, Welfare and Recreation, is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., April 11, at Stewart's youth sports complex baseball fields and on Hunter between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Youth Center and Child Development Center fields.

The Easter Egg Hunt is open to children ages 1-10 years old; however, there will be a number of activities open to all including face painting, food, games, inflatable bounce houses, a photo opportunity and more.

The installation Easter Sunrise Service is slated for 6:30 a.m., April 12 at Marne Garden. Community Members are invited to hear the joyous sounds of the Live Oak Church of God choir with Pastor Aaron Cowart.

Dave Roever, a motivational speaker who visited Marne Soldiers during their recent deployment in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, will be the guest speaker at the Sunrise Service.

Serving with the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War, Roever had a phosphorous grenade ignite in his hand and as a result he was severely burned, requiring him to be hospitalized for 14 months.

Drawing upon his experiences of loneliness, peer pressure, pain and life's triumphs, Roever said that he tries to weave a message of courage, commitment and survival.

April brings local events, happenings

Bruce G. Muncher

Directorate of Information Management

Welcome to the month of April. As March went out like a lion, April was ushered in by those much-needed April showers. As the parched earth absorbs the moisture of the springtime rain, the process of photo-synthesis begins, turning the ever-present landscape into pallets of green.

The azaleas, dogwoods and wisteria are in the height of bloom and Warriors Walk ablaze with amethyst petals, which fall softly to the memories below.

April is the ideal time for getting your hands dirty in the garden or sinking your toes into the beach sand. It is that time to watch children, dressed in their Sunday best, as they search for Easter eggs. Get out and enjoy each spring day with a jog, a bike, a walk or a drive.

Take advantage of what makes coastal Georgia magical and be sure to call your friends up north to give them a weather update. Venture off your normal path and enjoy some of the following events and festivities.

Watch the Watchers: Watchmen, Reviewed

Sasha McBrayer

Frontline Contributor

Let's say you were a creative writer or even a comic book writer. Let's say you wanted to attempt a new story, something that has never really been done before. What about a very realistic view of super heroes, you think to yourself. If heroes like Batman, Superman, and Wonder Woman were real, what would they be like? Better yet, what would the world be like in their wake? In the late 1980's, Alan Moore and Dave Gibbons asked themselves these questions. The result was a 12-issue comic book series, backed by DC Comics, called "Watchmen." It has been among the most celebrated comic stories of all time and now it is also a major motion picture.

The brilliance of the story is probably due to how multi-faceted it is. "Watchmen" isn't just a superhero story. It isn't just about a pack of good guys who chase bad guys. Instead, it marries dark humor, political satire, science fiction and history with the world of superheroes. It takes place in an alternate reality where superheroes were deployed by President Nixon to end the Vietnam War in one week, which resulted in his repeated re-election.

Now, however, 1980's America is embroiled in the Cold War with Russia. Nuclear war is imminent, costumed vigilantes have been outlawed, their watchdog posses disbanded, and a once notorious government-employed hero has been murdered. As the murder is investigated by the only remaining member of the once mighty costumed group who cares (the Watchmen), a sinister plot to kill millions begins to unfold and audiences discover the hidden depths of the individual Watchmen and their various histories.

If it sounds like a lot to pour into one soup, you're right. For that reason, the film runs 162 minutes long. Still, it is a very tasty soup, and for those of you more superficial about your hero movies, don't worry. There are plenty of amazing fight scenes in there, too. For that matter, "Watchmen" deals with very adult themes. This isn't "Spider-Man" or even "The Dark Knight." It is more in the vein of "SAW," "Sin City" and "Seven." Please, please leave the kids at home.

There are too many cool bits and pieces in this film to mention. In fact, TIME Magazine's Richard Corliss wrote, "This ambitious picture is a thing of bits and pieces", yet "the bits are glorious, the pieces magnificent." My favorite thing, however, would have to be Rorschach. For ages, my favorite super heroes have been Marvel's Wolverine and DC's Batman. Rorschach, however, marries the dark vigilante nature of the bat, with Wolverine's tenacity. In the film, he is portrayed by former child star Jackie Earle Haley, a long time fan of the comic character, who traveled to the same lengths the late Heath Ledger in his role as Joker. The result is stunning to watch.

The total "geek" experience of watching "Watchmen" on the big screen was only heightened by the trailers that came on before it. "Terminator: Salvation", J.J. Abram's "Star Trek" prequel, and "X-Men Origins: Wolverine" were all advertised. As for those exciting films, I can't help but share some interesting facts. Arnold Schwarzenegger will voice the "T-800 Model 101" in the newest Terminator. In Wolverine's new flick, you can expect to see appearances from Gambit, Emma Frost, Deadpool and even a teenaged Cyclops.

Youth show off photo skills in local contest

Bob Mathews
FMWR Marketing Publicity Specialist

Twenty-three youngsters, digital cameras in hand, put their imagination, creativity and photography skills to work during the recent ImageMakers National Photography Contest.

The local contest was conducted by Child, Youth and School Services in partnership with the Boys and Girls Club at Fort Stewart. Participants came from the middle school and teen and school age services programs.

This is the second year the ImageMaker competition has been held at Fort Stewart. Nationally, the contest has been held since 1960. Its goal is to help youth "uncover their artistic talents, develop their creative skills and even explore related career opportunities." The top winners' photographs from this year's local event will be entered into a regional competition.

The results of their work impressed a panel of judges, who said they had difficulty choosing the photographs that will go on to the next level of the competition.

Images included some unusual angles, such as a view showing only the shoe-tops of four friends standing toe-to-toe; and a close-up of the face of the 3rd Infantry Division's mascot, "Rocky."

Other images that caught the judges' and viewers' eyes included a sunburst, and a close-up of a young photographer focusing his camera on a fellow photographer taking his photo.

All of the images were displayed at the Post Exchange entrance area to allow shoppers to enjoy them before they were moved to Club Stewart for the awards ceremony, March 19.

First prize in the middle school and teen competition went to Kelsea Fallon for the shoe-top photo, called "Unity." Second place went to Marion Lang for "Twilight," a photo of a sunset, and third place was awarded to Morgan Williams for her photograph of a "Smiling Dog."

First prize in the 9-and-under school age services competition went to Brandon Velasco for "Fight for Freedom," a photograph of a young person looking at the monument in Marne Garden. Second prize went to Jordan Epperson for "Fish" and third to Alexie Buchs for "Rocky."

Linda Heifferon, Director of Family, Morale, Welfare and Recreation, praised the work of each participant and thanked them for their participation.

The other MST participants were Anthony Chambers, Gavin Fallon, Josh Hill, Charles McLaughlin, Derick Nelson, Anthony Patron, Dashawna Pirtle, Lauren Prox, Quivon Sarlin, Jordan Seabrook and Mary Williams.

Holly Epperson, Jacob Harris, Austin Lathem, Haley Lathem, Hussan Muhammad and Jamia Stackhouse were the other participants in the SAS-level competition.

Linda Schumm, Training and Program Specialist, said the participants spent about 90 days taking the photos and preparing to submit their work for the contest.

She and SAS Director Joan Styles formed a CYSS team to oversee the event. Other staff assisting with the program were SAS computer lab technician Douglas Carter, MST computer lab technician Luis Vargas, MST homework lab technician Mary Kane, SAS training and curriculum specialist Sarah Hagood, and lead SAS program technician Brenda Morgan.

"There was more involved than just taking the photos," Schumm said. "They not only had to learn how to use the camera, but also about what makes a good photograph. We had a matting and framing specialist come in and teach the kids how to prepare their photos for the contest."

3ID leads Blessing of the Fleet

On the banks of the Altamaha river in South Georgia, the City of Darien, in McIntosh County, celebrated the 41st Annual Blessing of the Fleet March 27, 28 and 29. The event featured a parade led by Col. Shawn Morrissey, 3rd Sustainment Brigade commander, along with his Color Guard and the 3rd Infantry Division Band. "It is an honor to take part in this celebration," he said. "The shrimping industry in Darien and McIntosh County is very important to the economy of this region, as is Fort Stewart and the 3rd Infantry Division. I cannot imagine not being a part of this event that recognizes the men and women that work so hard to export a bit of Georgia worldwide."

Read Across Liberty Day comes to Liberty

Leah Poole
United Way of the Coastal Empire

The Kiwanis Club of Liberty County and the Hinesville Rotary Club have made it a mission this year to read and give out 6,000 or more books to school children in Liberty County.

To ramp up these efforts, the two groups will be organizing a day of reading to provide eight readers for each of the eight elementary schools and the one Pre-K Center operated by the Liberty County School System. We will also read at First Presbyterian, First United Methodist Pre-K and the Liberty County Head Start Program in Riceboro. That is a total of 96 readers needed in a three hour time span! Last year we had 70 readers turn out to help.

We have scheduled this project in April to support Child Abuse Prevention Month and our continuing partnership with Prevent Child Abuse, Liberty, as research has shown that children who have adults outside of Family Members who spend time with them are more likely to become productive members of society.

This year, we will also be adding a new element with books that are read to the students focusing around recycling, litter prevention and basic "green" efforts as we enter into the time of the year that focuses on Earth Day and the Great American Clean-up.

Readers will be available from 9 a.m. until 12 noon to read for a half hour and to present each student with one age appropriate book to take home with them for their own.

This event will not cost parents or schools anything. Funds for this project have been provided by the two civic organizations as well as by Target and Keep Liberty Beautiful.

We hope to donate 3,500 books in one day.

To sign up to read, e-mail lpooles@uwce.org or call (912) 368-4282.

2009 RCI survey underway

Alicia S.S. Hite
RCI Office, DPW

The Residential Communities Initiative Office and private partner Balfour Beatty Communities military housing at Fort Stewart and Hunter Army Airfield are committed to assuring that Soldiers and their Families are provided with the best possible quality-of-life while living in on-post Family housing.

If you are residing in on-post Family housing, you will be receiving an important Army Resident Assessment survey postcard asking you to take the time to complete the online resident survey.

The purpose of this survey is to let you and your Family tell us how well we are doing in satisfying your on-post housing needs. The information you provide will help guide us in providing future improvements to our housing facilities and services. The RCI program is designed to enhance the quality of life for you and your family by building new homes, renovating existing homes and improving neighborhood amenities such as playgrounds, outdoor athletic courts, and walking/running trails.

Balfour Beatty Communities operates and maintains on-post housing facilities and services, and RCI provides oversight of BBC performance for quality assurance. Survey postcards will be mailed to residents in April, and hardcopy surveys will be available at the Community Centers at Fort Stewart and Hunter Army Airfield. Your answers to these questions are strictly confidential. The survey is also being distributed to all other Army installations participating in the RCI Family Housing privatization program.

We are not tabulating personal data, and your survey in no way identifies you or the residence you currently occupy. This is your opportunity to have a positive impact on your community by taking the time to complete the survey. Help make a difference in the quality of life for our Soldiers and their Families.

Free PGA tourney admission for servicemembers, Families

Nancy Gould
*Hunter Army Airfield
Public Affairs*

Just as they have in years past, active-duty members of the military and their Families get free admittance to the Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf Tournament, scheduled April 24 – 26, at the Westin, Savannah Harbor Golf Resort & Spa.

In past years, about 3,000 service members have attended this annual tournament. This year, attendees will watch well-known Champion Tour Stars, including Tom Watson, Tom Kite, Fuzzy Zoeller, Jay Haas and others who are part of the Champions (seniors) PGA Tour.

Thanks to the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, the Savannah USO and Liberty Mutual organizers, Soldiers can enjoy free admission along with free food and beverages dispensed from the USO's canteen, located behind the 18th green.

In the past, event spectators and golf professionals routinely stop by the canteen to pay Soldiers their respects and to see the 3rd Infantry Division's up-armored humvee positioned in front of the tent with Soldiers nearby to talk about the vehicle and their careers in the Army.

If you plan to attend, just present your active-duty military ID at the entrance. For additional information, contact the tournament office at (912) 236-1333.
